Is that a Drug House?!

So you've become suspicious, you're wondering could it be that you have a drug dealer in your neighborhood? It's difficult to say for sure, but there are signs that may have already alerted you. These indicators may have caused you become suspicious to the activities taken place. There are four things that make a drug house:

Product
Buyer
Seller
Location

Most neighborhoods have very little control over Product, Buyer, or Seller. Drug dealers may look for locations where neighbors do not communicate and isolate themselves. This makes it easy to intimidate those neighbors that do notice drug activity. Drug dealers like neighborhoods that say "It can't happen here." Money is a key element for the drug dealer. If they establish a drug house in a neighborhood where kids and adults have money to buy drugs, business will thrive. Do any of these sound familiar?

- Excessive foot traffic to and from a house or property
- Loitering in or around a house.
- Frequent and unusual traffic patterns such as: Stop - Enter - Leave
- Traffic frequently stops and a resident comes out and talks briefly with occupants of car
- Threats of intimidation connected to a residence
- Open exchange of drugs and money
- Sudden increase in criminal activity

Prevention is the best way to stop drug houses!

You can reduce the chance that a drug house moves into your neighborhood by using Neighborhood Watch—get to know your neighbors. If a problem develops in the neighborhood, work with law enforcement to resolve them quickly.

What should you do if there is a drug house in your neighborhood?

One of the tools of the drug dealer is intimidation. There is safety in numbers.

- Use Neighborhood Watch and the House Watch sheet provided, log all activity connected to the suspected drug house.
- Speak with property owners, if applicable about problems that the tenants are causing for neighbors. If you are having problems, the property owner is probably having problems too.
- Talk to the Police Departments' SIU Officer and give the information from your House Watch sheet to them.

The Garden City's Police Department's Anonymous Tip Line to report suspected drug activity is (734) 793-1718.
